

AGREE ON REMOVING 11TH AVE. TRACKS

Board of Estimate Committee and New York Central Reach
Final Conclusion.

NO CASH COST TO CITY

Announcement was made yesterday that city officials composing the committee on port and terminal facilities of the Board of Estimate had come to an agreement with the New York Central Railroad under which all railroad tracks will be removed from the streets. This means that the Eleventh avenue problem, which has vexed one city administration after another for many years, has been settled and the plan as agreed upon contemplates an entire reorganization of the traffic system that has been an increasing source of annoyance as the west side of Manhattan Island has developed.

Tunnel to Be Built.

According to the report of the settlement as made by the committee the railroad will go through a tunnel under the Hudson River from the ship canal, to Dockman street and over Dockman street by viaduct, thus obviating any change in the grade of the street. The railroad will construct a roof over its right of way through Fort Washington Park and also over its main line tracks from 153d street to 155th street. Through and along Riverside Park the railroad will go in a tunnel. This means an amplified park space and the maintenance of an interrupted park slopes according to a city plan already worked out. Between Eighty-second and Seventy-second streets the railroad will go by subway, this construction giving an approach to the railroad's Sixth street yard.

The railroad will construct an elevated line along the new and existing Twelfth avenue from Fifty-ninth street to its Thirtieth street yard and an elevated line from the Thirtieth street yard to its southern terminus on a right of way through private property to the east of West street, this right of way to be acquired by the railroad at its own expense.

An idea of the magnitude of the undertaking is obtained from an outline of the detailed plans. A rearrangement of tracks, the construction of a four track swing bridge and ramps for tracks approaching from the north and east are included in the work from the north line of the Borough of Manhattan to the southwest pier of the bridge in Spuyten Duyvil, where there is a connection with the Spuyten Duyvil and Port Morris Railroad. From Spuyten Duyvil bridge to the north line of Fort Washington Park the four track tunnel through the west side of the hill will be built by the "cut and cover" method. There will be a viaduct over Dockman street and a ramp for tracks south of Dockman street.

Four Track Subways.

The present cut through Fort Washington Park will be turned into a four track subway and the original surface of the park will be restored. From the south line of the park to a point opposite 153d street the work includes the construction of an open cut, a track right of way at grade and the extension of West 153d street over the tracks on a ramp to the dock area.

Between Eighty-second street and Seventy-second street the plan provides for a fan of from five to twenty-one tracks and a tunnel plan. From Seventy-second street to Thirtieth street there will be a four track ramp to Fifty-ninth street and an elevated structure to Thirtieth street at its Twelfth avenue and the original right of way. Tracks will be located on two levels between Thirtieth and Thirtieth streets. From Thirtieth street to the Canal street terminal there will be a two track railroad.

According to the statement of the committee it has been necessary for the city to examine with the railroad certain parcels of land to protect park waterfront against encroachment and to afford the railroad the necessary right of way and facilities in connection with the same as was proposed in the suggested 1912 settlement. Under the present settlement the railroad will have to pay several millions of dollars more than was proposed in 1912. The city also reserves the right to construct a two track elevated railroad south of Fifty-ninth street between the tracks of the New York Central and the river front.

Before the agreement is actually signed as agreed upon yesterday the Board of Estimate will make available for a period of thirty days a complete report, accompanied by plans, so the public may have full opportunity to examine them and present views.

REVIEW FOR 7TH REGIMENT.

Col. Appleton's Last Probable Appearance in Command.

One of the most notable events in the history of the Seventh Infantry, N. Y., will be the review in the armory tomorrow night in honor of the regular army of the United States, with which the Seventh has for many years enjoyed close association.

Major-General Hugh L. Scott, Chief of the General Staff; Major-General Tasker H. Bliss, General Staff, and Brigadier-General L. M. Mills, Chief of the division of militia affairs, will review the regiment, and other officers of the army who will be present include: Col. Edwin F. Chittenden, General Staff; Col. Charles G. Treat, war college; Col. J. T. Dickman, Second Cavalry; Col. Clarence P. Townsend, Superintendent of the United States Military Academy at West Point, and Lieut. Col. Morton P. Smith, commandant of cadets at West Point.

The review, it is understood, will mark the last appearance of Col. Appleton with the regiment as its commander. He will retire on February 24, owing to the age limit.

IRISH GETTING OUT THE GREEN

St. Patrick to Be Honored With Big Hibernian Reunion.

March 17 will be celebrated hereabouts as an old fashioned "All Irish" day, a general reunion of Irishmen and sons of Irishmen in this and neighboring States, according to the programme being arranged by the 1916 committee under the direction of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in New York county, of which Major Eugene J. Flood is chairman.

At the first meeting of the officers and delegates of the A. O. H. and county organizations on Friday at 211 East Forty-fifth street about 300 representatives of Irishmen were present and the following officials were selected for St. Patrick's Day: Grand marshal, Al. J. O'Connor; chairman of arrangements, Frank J. Harty; secretaries, Thomas P. O'Garra; chairman of reception committee, James Hebron; floor manager, Thomas Carroll; assistant managers, Peter J. Donahue and Maurice Kellier.
